OPINION

Zoning Text Amendment No. 04-14 was introduced on July 20, 2004, to allow under certain circumstances up to 100 percent of the total number of dwelling units in a one-family residential zone to be other than one-family detached units to achieve MPDUs on-site.

The Montgomery County Planning Board in its report to the Council recommended that the text amendment be approved modifications.

The County Council held a public hearing on September 23, 2004, to receive testimony concerning the proposed text amendment. The text amendment was referred to the Planning, Housing, and Economic Development Committee for review and recommendation.

The Planning, Housing, and Economic Development Committee held worksessions to review Zoning Text Amendment 04-14 on October 20, November 15, and November 23, 2004. The maximum percentage of townhouses that may be constructed in a one-family residential subdivision under the optional MPDU development standards is 50 percent in the R-200, R-150, and R-150 zones, and 60 percent in the R-60 zone. The Planning Board under current law may allow for environmental reasons up to 100 percent of the total number of dwelling units in such a subdivision to be townhouses. ZTA 04-14 would give the same priority to MPDUs as given to the environment if the Board finds that the MPDUs could not be achieved because of development limitations. The Committee agreed to support ZTA 04-14 to allow up to 100 percent of the total number of dwelling units in an MPDU subdivision to be other than one-family detached residential units. The Committee requested that staff add language to require that any increase in dwelling unit types above the standard percentages allowed must achieve not less than the same level of compatibility as would exist if the development were constructed using the standard percentage of dwelling unit types. The Planning Board would have to make a finding of compatibility for any development that exceeds the maximum percentage of allowable dwelling units.

The District Council reviewed Zoning Text Amendment No. 04-14 at a worksession held on November 30, 2004, and agreed with the recommendations of the Planning, Housing, and Economic Development Committee.

For these reasons and because to approve this amendment will assist in the coordinated, comprehensive, adjusted and systematic development of the Maryland-Washington Regional District located in Montgomery County, Zoning Text Amendment No. 04-14 will be approved as revised.

9   <sup>1</sup>       The maximum percentage of one-family attached dwelling units, [or]
10       semidetached dwelling units, or townhouses [, or a combination thereof,] 11       allowed in a subdivision is:

- 12               R-200 and R-150 Zones: 50%;
- 13               R-90 Zone: 50%;

19       a combination thereof,] upon a finding that a (1) proposed development is 20       [(1)] more desirable from an environmental perspective than development

21 that would result from adherence to these percentage limits, [and] or (2)
22 limits on development at that site would not allow the applicant to achieve
23 MPDUs under Chapter 25A on-site. However, any increase in any dwelling 24 unit type above the standard percentage allowed must achieve not less than 25 the same level of compatibility as would exist if the development were 26 constructed using the standard percentage of that type of dwelling unit. Any 27 development that exceeds the maximum percentage of allowable dwelling
28 unit types must be compatible with adjacent existing and approved
29 development.
